Sense of Direction.

The apparently marvelous way in which Indians, Eskimos and other primitive people make their way through forests, snow covered areas or other regions which have little to indicate direction to white newcomers has led to a widespread belief that they possess a mysterious sixth sense of direction. Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the arctic traveler, who has lived much with Eskimos, is very skeptical about the existence of any superiority of sense of direction among primitive people of any kind and gives strong evidence from personal experience that Eskimos have no such superiority. The ability of Indians and others to find their way he attributes solely to their familiarity with the country through which they are traveling. They note many things that they have seen before and that have no significance to the stranger in their land. White men can and do acquire the same ability to find their way when they have learned to know a country. When the land is equally strange to the white man and the Indian or Eskimo, the white man, because of his better developed reasoning power, is more likely to have a correct idea of direction than the Eskimo.—Indianapolis News.

The Literal Mind.

Man is never literal in the expression of his ideas except in matters most trivial. Very often man's words are not a language at all, but merely a vocal gesture of the dumb. They may indicate, but do not express, his thoughts. The more vital his thoughts the more have his words to be explained by the context of his life. Those who seek to know his meaning by the aid of the dictionary only technically reach the house, for they are stopped by the outside wall and find no entrance to the hall. This is the reason why the teachings of our greatest prophets give rise to endless disputes when we try to understand them by following their words and not by realizing them in our own lives. The men who are cured with the gift of the literal mind are the unfortunate ones who are always busy with their nets and neglect the fishing.—"Sadhana—The Realization of Life," by Ishabindranath Tazore.

Tree Roots.

An article by A. Howard in the Agricultural Journal of India describes the attempts made at the Pusa experimental station to protect field crops from injury by the roots of neighboring trees, by digging a deep trench each year between the trees and the adjacent cultivated area. In the case of some trees this plan proved successful, but not in the case of others such as the pipal, banyan and fig. When the trenches were opened up it was found that the several roots had become connected again. New roots had been formed at the cut extremity. They had grown across the trench, which was twenty-four to thirty inches wide, and united with the severed portion of the root by a process of natural thickening of the connections, which attained a thickness of .8 to 1.1 inches in twelve months.

Left Her Excuse Home.

One of the chorus girls came upon the stage after the rehearsal had been under way more than a half hour. The manager said, with all the tenderness of a buzz saw: "Do you know that you are very late? What excuse have you got to offer?" "I didn't bring it with me," she answered. "Bring what?" thundered the manager. "My excuse. I left it at home. You see, I got married yesterday, but I didn't think you wanted to see my husband." The manager tried to suppress a grin. "Well proceed with the rehearsal. Your excuse is sufficient."—Exchange.

Mosques in England.

There are magnificent Mohammedan mosques in England. Those at Liverpool and Woking are noted for their exquisite appointments, and there is one situated at Bayswater. The doors are gilded in a similar way to those of the world famous Taj Mahal at Agra, built by Shah Jehan. In the east end there is a sacred temple to Al Ahmed, where the faithful meet once a year to go through a curious ceremony in honor of the prophet.—London Spectator.

Cured of Indigestion.

Mrs. Sadie P. Clawson, Indiana, Pa., was bothered with indigestion. My stomach pain me night and day," she writes. "I would feel bloated and have headache and belching after eating. I also suffered from constipation. My daughter had used Chamberlain's Tablets and they did her so much good that she gave me a few doses of them and insisted upon my trying them. They helped me as nothing else has done." For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

"A fellow told me today," confided Mr. Dippie. "that I didn't know enough to pound sand. He said that I was the blindest idiot he ever saw. Now, what do you think of that?" "I think it was a wonderfully tactless of him," exclaimed Miss Keene indignantly.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Considerate.

Don't Mistake the Cause

Many Manning People Have Kidney Trouble And Do Not Know It.

Do you have backache? Are you tired and worn out? Feel dizzy, nervous and depressed? Are the kidney secretions irregular? Highly colored; contain sediment? Likely your kidneys are at fault. Weak kidneys give warning of distress. Head aching; don't delay—Use a tested kidney remedy. Read this Manning testimony. Mrs. Joseph Wells, Manning, S. C., says: "I was afflicted with kidney complaint and I suffered intensely from dull, aching backaches, headaches and dizzy spells. Doan's Kidney Pills proved to be just what I needed and I had not used them long before I was relieved. I got this remedy from Dr. W. E. Brown & Co's Drug Store, (now the Dickson Drug Co.) and I cheerfully recommend it to anyone suffering from kidney trouble." Price 50c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Wells had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

She Missed Queen Victoria.

Lois Fuller in her book tells us how she failed to see Queen Victoria, a misfortune due to the exigencies of theatrical contracts. "One day at Nice some one came and asked me to dance before Queen Victoria. She had just arrived at the Riviera to pass the winter months, as she was accustomed to do every year. It may well be believed that I was flattered by such a request. I assented, naturally, and set myself to work making all my preparations for this important event.

"There was a knock at the door. A maid brought a telegram. It was signed by my manager and was couched in the following words: 'Take train this evening, to sail day after tomorrow; destination, New York.'

"I replied with a message pleading for a delay for the purpose of dancing before Queen Victoria. I received simply the following laconic telegram: 'Impossible. Leave at once. Time is money.'

"That's why I did not dance before Queen Victoria."

Rebuked.

The Germans—as all extensively traveled persons know—are great sticklers for titles. One must not only say Herr Cancellarius Bolz, Herr Dr. Baron Meier, Herr Professor Schmidt; one must also say Frau Cancellarius Bolz, Frau Dr. Baronin Meier, Frau Professorin Schmidt. Also there are fine distinctions in titles. If one title is higher than another by so much as a hair's breadth, the wayfarer must not call the rightful owner of the higher title by the lower title. Never! A certain public schoolteacher who already enjoyed the title of master was promoted to head master. Next day young Fritz, quite unaware, as yet, of the honor that had come to his instructor overnight, greeted him with his usual cheery "Good morning, master." "Perhaps," said the new head master with dignity, "perhaps you'd rather just call me 'Adolt'."—New York Post.

Opposed to Knighthood.

Coke of Norfolk, who eventually went to the lords as Earl of Leicester, was a chivalrous knight, but he was opposed to knighthood. "After an attack on the queen regent's life in 1317, Coke was chosen to present him with an address from the Norfolk Whigs. They congratulated him heartily on his escape, but concluded by beseeching him to 'dismiss from his presence and council those advisers who by their conduct had proved themselves alike enemies to the throne and people.' On learning the terms of the proposed address the regent, who knew that Coke valued his position as commoner above everything, declared, 'If Coke enters my presence I shall knight him.' When this threat was reported to Coke he replied: 'If he dare try to knight me I swear I'll break his sword!'"—London Chronicle.
